We give elsewhere the testimony before the coroner's jury in this case, and so leave it. The pavies whom it was sought to arrest were no doubt had men. We are reliably informed that stolen property was found in their possession, and that the man who was killed was riding a saddle stolen from Mr. Reed at the late camp-meeting. Still the tragical finale is much to be regretted, al though the jury, upon the testimony held the killing to be the result of resistance to arrest, and hence justifiable. sistance to arrest, and hence justifiable

A Killing while Attempting an Arrest-Testimony before the Coroner's Jury-Their Verdict.

On Thursday last an attempt was made by the Sherif's posse to arrest three men, charged with having stolen some outs and perhaps other articles. In the attempt Henry Cantrell, one of the accused, was killed. An icquest was held the same day by C. W. Grooms J. P. The following jurors were summoned and sworn: Geo. T. McGehon M'Kie, J. R. Williamson and J. J. Brown. Barbee, who proceeded to the place where the body of Cantroll was found and examined the same. whereupon the following witnesses were duly sworn and tertified as follows:

Deputy Sheriff R. H. Manlove, sworn mys: I started out with a capies to ar rest the deceased and the two other men that were with him; before I caught up with them I summoned Scott Miller to assist Sam Watkins and my solf in making the arrest; we then trailed three men on to the Blanco river, and when we resched the west bank of the river at the crossing of the Austin road we saw two of the men climbing the fence at Wm. Ferrill's house these men, mounted their horses and ran: I called to them to halt three times; the third time I was answered by a pistel shot evidently coming from the deceased who was at that time on the east bank of the river about 30 paces from the water and not with the other two men. The shot drew my attention to him and I looked and saw him sitting side-ways on his horse with his pistol pointed at me; he and I then fired about the the same time. Scott Miller must have fired about the same time, he did not fire before deceased fired the first shot, deceased then drop ped his pistol, ran on a piece and fell, he died where he fell. R. H. MANLOVE. Sam Watkins being sworn says : I was one of the Sheriff a posse to arrest the deceased and two other men who Were with him; we rode upon the west bank of the river and saw two of the men at Ferrell's house on the east bank both ran, we then trotted down to the river and saw deceased and onlied to him to halt; he ran his hand down in his boot leg and commenced drawing at something and we threw the guns down at him my horse was wild and was flound ering in the river and making a noise, when the man ran his hand in the boot Scott Miller told him to stop and then the firing commenced, I am not positive who fired first, but deceased had his pistol presented at Scott when Scott S. H. WATKINS. fired.

Wm. Ferrell sworn says: Two of he men the Sheriff was after come to my bonse and got some water and Martind le-W. F. Shinn, bought two watermelons and gave a lit can Marcos-Miss Lubia Connally, the boy at my house a dollar to pay for them, he came into the house to get the change; who he went out the men were gone; the boy only staid in the house long enough to get the change. I did not hear any of the shooting at the river crossing, but immediately after the two men left I heard a woman screaming and I came out of the bouse and found deceased. WM. FERRELL

Amanda Couch being sworn, says ou oath : I was in the wagon and the deceased was riding behind the wagon on horseback. I saw the three men come own the hill in a trot; I called Henry," he then whirled and saw the men and came by the wagon; as he passed by the wagon I said "rant" he kept running on, just then the freedman, Scort Miller, passed by the wagon and and fired; the deceased then dropped his pistel and a few steps further on he tell. I d'd not hear the decessed fire any shots. The deceased is my step-AMANDA COUCH. son in law.

Sallie Cantrell being sworn says My name is Sailie Cantrell, I am the wife of the deceased. I heard the men before they got to me but did not see them until they got right behind; the man Scott Miller was ahead, my hus band was riding beside me, we were on the west side of the Blanco river at the water's edge; my husband ran ahead of me, Scott Miller followed him, I do not know what made my husband run , my husband had a pistol in his boot, he took the pistel out of his boot leg just before he fell and after he was shot; I stopped at the water when my husband Scott Miller passed me and just as he got at the wagon he threw his as he got at the wagon he threw his zun down with his left hand and fired. [The witness was shown the pistel picked up at the dead body and said it was the same one deceased had in his boot leg ] I don't know when deceased last fired his pistel; one of the men that was with the deceased was named beautiful or the other was named. Dennis Couch; the other was name! Pluribus Hall. SALLIE CANTARLL.

THE TERDICT.

We the jury of inquest on the body deceased, Henry Cantroll, find that he deceased, Henry Cantrell, 2nd that he came to his death from a gan shot wound inflicted by Scott Miller acting as part of the Sheriffs posse for the strest of decased, on the 28th day of July, in the county of Have, State of Texas in the year 1881. The Normal Institute.

The session of last week was of ex-traordinary interest. With it closed the term of service of Dr. Baldwin who had done so much towards building our Institute up and maintaining an interest in it. On Friday he gave his sugar, brown, per lb. 16 to the closing lessons and bade adieu to the regrettul pupils. He possesses in large measure the traits of a successful revival preacher, which he applies to large heads to the successful revival preacher, which he applies to large heads who had done so much towards build-the subject of education. The exercises of Friday closed with The exercises of Friday closed with a sort of general "love feast. Among the speakers were Judge Kone, Protessor Stuts, late of Missouri, now of Kyle. Mr. Hamilton, of Mississippi, Rev. Mr. Gillett, Mr. Franklin, and Mr. Clothier of Galveston. The latter gentleman's volunteer speech was a good sample of several others which followed. He spoke wormly of feeling himself benefitted personally, and as a father, by what he had heard during his attendance at the had heard during his attendance at the Institute. A real love teast—fervor and carnestness pervaded the assemblage.

We made our weekly call pesterday morning, and found no evidences of abstement of interest under the able administration of Prof. Rote, successor to Prof. Baldwin. On the contrary, somewhat less of a looking up to one man, seemed to operate favorably on the teachers generally, which in some respectswas a stimulus to invidual activity and general improvement. We found an addition of twenty-four names on the register since our last round, and heard of more still coming. There is every indication that the Institute will regularly progress in interest and value to

From Bastrop. BASTROP, August, 1st, 1881, In this County the corn crop is not near as bad as some would have us believe (for self interest). Some farmers a splendid have old corn enough to last them the BRICK DWELLING OF 6 ROOMS lieve (for self interest). Some farmers year out; this corn crop in some locali ties will yield from 25 to 40 bushels per acre, while perhaps in some localities they will make only good corn stock and TENART HOUSE OF THEER ROOMS, and feed. But the small grain crop was fair and secured in good condition. Cotton prospects are good, though in some farms trospects are good, though in some farms the worms have appeared, and they have to sprinkle their fields with a solution of arsenies poison to kill the worms. Post Oak grapes sell at 50c a bucket of 25c per galion for expressed juice. Tolerable fair peaches sell at 50c per bucket.
